

BARACK OBAMA

October 23, 2008

Dear Friends:

It is with great joy that I welcome you to the Earth Day Network's School Greening Project. I want to offer my congratulations on the successful "green" renovations that have been done here at Bloom High School.

Educating others about the importance of preserving our environment is a noble endeavor that is inspiring to all of us. I trust that everyone in attendance today can appreciate the hard work that has gone into making today possible. Your participation in Earth Day Network's National GREEN Schools Campaign will benefit the entire community and serve as an example for our country.

Once again, congratulations on your accomplishments and keep up the good work.

Sincerely,
